Strategic Plan Evaluation			Glasbrenner shared that he had reached out to Mark Roffers of Roffers Consulting about planning for an update. He is interested in the work. The committee reported that surveying staff experiences and including feedback from community individuals, building administration, and staff will be important as we evaluate the accomplishments of this strategic plan and the next.
District Data			Glasbrenner shared district data from the 2021-22 school year. There is concern about district cumulative data being below state data marks. Young asked for more longitudinal data to see trends of decline or rebound.
District Goals			Glasbrenner shared two district goals (one climate goal and one academic goal). He and the administrators present shared the Professional Learning Community (PLC) structure and recent training at CESA 3. There will be continued work and professional development on strengthening academics by implementing/deepening the instructional strategy of small groups. There will be further learning on SEL (Social Emotional Learning) for staff and students as well. Young did advise to keep the opening days real but positive. Glasbrenner shared district teacher survey results from 2021-22. The climate of our staff and buildings is an area in which Glasbrenner and the administrative team will continue to investigate. There was a discussion around finding balance for our employees with their family, fun, and work. Slides for the opening day when staff return were drafted and shared.
